Happy Wednesday!

Today was a great day. There is a lot of excitement in the air! Nice weather in the forecast and the students are excited about their Friday High School Senior Car Run. COVID cases are down again in the State of Wisconsin. The Hospital is doing more surgeries, some hotels have seen an uptick with construction crews working on projects in the area, along with essential business travel, and the retailers were able to open yet another day. We have an updated list of who is open and hours so keep scrolling down and you'll see this information.

I've been thinking a lot about when this all started. Sometimes it seems like months, and sometimes it seems like yesterday. We are on day 57 of the shut-down. St. Patrick's Day was the day that things started to close - For the first 4 - 6 weeks, everyone was scrambling trying to figure out what we would need to battle this monster! We quickly learned new acronyms like EIDL, PPP, PPE, phrases like “Flattening the Curve”, and “Social Distancing” were quickly added to our daily dialog's. Hospitals instantly on lock down and gearing up for a mad rush of patients, and creating alternative space for overflow if needed or new measures for patient intake. Federal and State governments rushing to come up with ways to fight this virus both medically and financially. It was crazy! This is the first week that I haven't had multiple webinars every day. I am still quite surprised as many of you are, at the testing that was done last Thursday. 148 people “with symptoms” were tested and 0 cases. That is absolutely amazing with the numbers that we have seen in other areas of the state. I'm so thankful and excited because I think there is light at the end of the tunnel. There is hope and yet there is apprehension when I speak to my colleagues. We still don't know what is ahead of us, but I personally feel positive that if we continue to social distance, wear masks as needed, wash our hands, and practice smart hygiene, that we can continue to fight this beast. Each week, there are more and more break troughs from researchers, scientists, and physicians, that continue to learn the mysteries of COVID. This is definitely a work in progress. There are so many geniuses possessing so much wisdom, that we will only learn more and more as the time goes by. I posted something on my Facebook page last night about when I graduated from high school in 1977 in Rockford Illinois. We were on the tail end of a great recession. Unemployment was 23% and our big 10 schools were not able participate in sports because we didn't have the money. There was a referendum that didn't pass, because people were laid off and frightened. It was a very hard year to be a graduating senior, so I feel for these students that are graduating in 2020. When something disrupts your future as this has, it can be extremely stressful. But... we all will have great testimonies and stories when this does pass, and it will. We just don't know when, but we all have learned valuable lessons. We might not even know all of them now, but we will as we continue to work together and encourage and help each other through these rough times. There will be more phases as we prepare to open up, whatever that may look like, we will have new hurdles and new experiences, but we have come a long way since March 17th. One thing is for sure, this community bands together and I'm talking about the whole bay. People have been watching out for one another, watching out for our neighbors and the kids in the neighborhoods. It's been a strain on everyone. We forget sometimes that these poor kids just want to be with their friends and play and be kids and they will again, just like we will be able to play again as adults. But until then keep on keeping on, as they say. There is light at the end of the tunnel and we truly have come along way!!

There is a new grant that came out for "Ethnic Minority Owned" businesses in Wisconsin, so if you know of any please feel free to pass this information on. They cannot take advantage of this grant if they are on the Payment Protection Program. The State is waiting to hear from the Supreme Court. Regardless of what the ruling is, my hope is to see the Administration, Medical Community, Business Community, and State Legislature work together to create not the Democrat plan or the Republican plan or the Governor's plan, but the Wisconsin Plan!!

CAR RUN THROUGH ASHLAND!

Friday, May 15, is the Ashland High School Seniors Car Run and we really need businesses to decorate your windows and show your support!! Doesn't matter if your business is on Main Street or the highway or out by the hospital!! We would love for you to throw a sign in your window if you live in the city too. The car run is at 3:30pm and runs through town on Main Street, 3rd St W., Beaser Ave, past Ashland Health Services and then back to 11th Ave to the east end by Penn Park and back to Main Street.

Business Updates

To see a listing of what all Chamber Member Businesses are doing go to Latest Business News & Updates page

Some businesses are opening now that the governor is allowing 5 people in each non-essential store. Others are still working on their opening plan. We are so proud of our businesses, each one has taken the time to figure out what is going to work best for their customers and it may be a little different in each place, but still a thought-out process. We can put all the rules, guidelines, and best practices together, but not every customer is going to adhere to them, so that's why we try and keep our staff healthy and safe! That's the most important priority for business owners, and I've seen it and heard it in our many conversations with businesses in the last few weeks as they prepare to open. Receiving an order to allow retail to open immediately was very surprising. Some retailers are re-working their floor space to adhere to social distancing, deep cleaning, re-arranging product, inserting hand sanitizing stations and were not expecting to be allowed to open for a few weeks. This will all be a work in progress. We will keep you updated on the progress.

- A 2nd Look: 715-682-0696. Consignment Drop Off Update! We intend to open for consignment drop off tomorrow, May 14th. Our drop off hours for this week will be as follows: Thursday 3-7pm; Friday 10am - 5pm and Saturday 10am - 3pm. Accepting household and summer clothing only. Because we are going to have a short summer selling season, please bring only your VERY BEST SUMMER clothing. We will be accepting consignment at our back door (in the mural, there is a man playing a banjo beside our door). You may text us when you arrive at 715-209-3169 if you don't wish to come inside. Back door will be unlocked. We hope to be open for business under our new guidelines by the end of May. Guidelines will be posted on the front and back doors. We will update our page weekly.
- AdventureUs: Washburn 715-209-4057. Open by appointment and customers can shop online. Offering contact free entryway pickup, curbside delivery, and shipping. We have face masks, sunglasses, dog
